Reducing Expenses

The special Senate committee on the reduction of criminal expenses met at the Capitol in Richmond on Wednesday. There were present Senators Moore of Fairfax, Jones of Highland, Little of Fredericksburg, and Blackstone of Accomac.

The House committee on the same subject had been invited to be present, but none of them attended.

This was the third sitting of the Senate committee. As a practical result of its labors the committee has prepared eleven bills to be submitted at the next session of the Legislature, to be accompanied by an explanatory report. The most important of these, which it is calculated will effect the largest saving, and the one which required great legal acumen in its preparation to avoid constitutional prohibitions, amends sections 4106, 4107, and 4108 of the Code in relation to the jurisdiction of justices of the peace. It gives to magistrates and police justices exclusive jurisdiction in all common-law misdemeanors, with a light in certain cases to the circuit to have a removal to the corporation court; but in trial and allowing appeals from decisions rendered. This will do away with all indictments for misdemeanors, and will relieve the trial courts of a great deal of criminal business. In the drawing of the bill special care was taken to avoid the constitutional objections derived in the case of Callen vs. Wilson, decided recently in the United States Supreme Court and ex parte Mark in which a decision was lately rendered in the Court of Appeals of Virginia.

The second bill amends the code so as to require the Superintendent of the Penitentiary to send after convicts in the various counties, instead of the sheriffs bringing them in as at present.

It is estimated that this will effect a saving of 75 per cent. The basis of this calculation is information furnished by the Eastern and Western Lunatic Asylums in response to the requests of the committee. These figures show that in 1884 '85 266 patients were taken to the Western Asylum by State officers at a cost of $3,387.46, while in 1889-'90 215 lunatics were sent for by the asylum authorities and conveyed to the asylum for $1,091.10. In the fiscal year 1880-'81 the conveyance of convicts cost the State $3,597 and in 1888-'89 the expense was $6,000.

Bill No. 3 amends section 4018 of the Code in regard to the summoning of veniremen in felony cases, but does not destroy the discretion of the court to have summoned more than two juries when deemed necessary, but when such is done the fact with the judge's reason for so doing must be entered on the record and a copy of the order must be forwarded by the clerk in his annual report to the State Auditor. In 1880-'81 juries were paid over $28,000; in 1888-'89, $70,980 was expended for the same purpose.

The next bill gives to the accused in all criminal cases the right to waive a jury and be tried by the judge, who is to be authorized to render such judgment as would be embraced in the verdict of a jury. The committee, in framing this bill, gave careful consideration to the Mays case reported in 82 Virginia, in which the prisoner who waived a jury at the time of trial was released on a habeas corpus after he had been sent to the penitentiary.

An amendment to section 3528 of the Code is contained in the next bill. This allows the Commonwealth's attorney a fee of ten dollars in each felony case and five dollars for a misdemeanor, where the trial is prosecuted to a verdict and a judgment for the Commonwealth, to be charged only once in each case. Where a felony indictment results in a conviction for misdemeanor only five dollars is allowed.

Another bill amends the section of the Code relating to fees of sheriffs and constables in arresting and carrying prisoners to jail.

Section 3550 of the Code is so amended in the next bill as to provide that no fees shall be allowed witnesses for the Commonwealth for their attendance at police or magistrates' courts.

Another bill proposes to amend section 8980 of the Code, making the pay and mileage of grand jurors and witnesses before grand juries payable out of the county and corporation treasuries instead of from the State treasury.

The committee collected a great deal of valuable information, which will be submitted in its report, showing the methods that obtain in other States.

The criminal expenses of the State for the fiscal years ending September 30, 1881, and September 30, 1889, are as follows:

	1880-'81.	1888-'89.
Commonwealth's attorneys.....	$15,145	$24,417
Clerks.....	1,323.45	7,170.78
Constables.....	5,430.35	13,777.09
Felony.....	47,465.39	117,272.32
Grand.....	4,105.69	6,578.70
Guards.....	543.20	1,153.60
Jailors.....	1,364.20	2,936.25
Juries.....	28,137.08	70,980.50
Justices.....	3,959.70	9,981.53
Misdemeanors.....	21,356.30	55,184.48
Maintenance of prisoners.....	33,223.69	81,595.54
Sherrifs.....	9,851.43	13,905.24
Witnesses.....	15,994.04	32,431.66
Convicts to penitentiary.....	3,587.53	5,998.24
Examining jail.....	120.00	120.00
Totals.....	$196,696.95	$483,489.93

It has been suggested as an alternative to the general plan of the committee which consists mainly in amending the existing laws, that the present fee systems shall be done away with and salaries paid the Commonwealth's attorneys, justices of the peace, and constables. After a careful examination the committee think that this would be a dangerous innovation, the results of which could not well be foreseen, and that the present reduction of expenditures would not be very great. The committee recognizes the existence of inequalities in respect to the compensation now paid these officials, but they believe that the amendments proposed, that extravagance will be checked, and the total expenditures largely reduced.

As a sample of what occurs at this time it may be stated that the data now before the committee shows that in the year 1888-'89 in the Ninth Congressional district, with a voting population of 31,011 (census 1880), there was paid out of the treasury to Commonwealth's attorneys the sum of $5,325; to justices of the peace the sum of $1,737.85; and to constables the sum of $2,180.63; and that in the Tenth Congressional district, adjoining the Ninth, a voting population of 33,381, there was paid the same price to Commonwealth's attorneys, $1,270; to justices, $322.94; and to constables, $987.87.

At yesterday's session of the committee which adjourned a bill was recommended amending section 3534 of the Code, so as to provide that no police officer shall receive pay as a witness in any case pending in the courts of his city.

A second bill also agreed upon amends section 3528 of the Code in reference to the salaries of attorneys for the Commonwealth for services rendered to the Circuit Court. As proposed to be changed all of these salaries except that of the commonwealth's attorney of Richmond city (which will be reduced to $100) are to be abolished.
